

To whom it may concern,

It is with great pleasure that I write a letter of recommendation on behalf of Farm and Home Publishers. Located in Clear Lake, Iowa, Farm and Home Publishers has established itself as a trusted resource for farmers and rural communities, offering a comprehensive range of products and services tailored to meet their unique needs.

Farm and Home Publishers provides rural-focused land and resident information through its timely, accurate, and consistent digital resources. It is a full-service geographic information systems provider and one of the largest rural directories of its kind. It also provides commercial design and print services to help clients create effective print materials.

One of the standout features of Farm and Home Publishers is its exceptional team of professionals. Each one is highly skilled in their field and demonstrates a passion for helping their clients. They show a strong dedication to excellence in every endeavor and use a collaborative approach to ensure every client receives top-notch service and support.

I highly recommend Farm and Home Publishers for its outstanding services and exceptional team. Its commitment to quality, innovation, and community engagement makes it a valuable asset to the agricultural industry and rural communities alike.

Sincerely,

Scott Deetz
Business Optimization Specialist
Schooley Mitchell