

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation today on behalf of a great company, Optical Resources Group. Established in 2019 in Wichita, Kansas, Optical Resources Group is focused on a high level of prioritization to customer service within the optical lens manufacturing industry.

Optical Resources Group is a growing independent lab that has partnered with world-class technology, enabling it to offer the best products on the optical market. Its products can be customized to meet individual needs, including adding anti-reflective coatings. Additionally, it offers fair warranty and return policies.

At Optical Resources Group, the team makes all the difference. With a strong focus on customer service, each team member is highly efficient and friendly. They routinely go above and beyond to ensure that customers' needs are met, even for exceptionally unique orders.

I would highly recommend Optical Resources Group to any optical practice looking for an optical lens supplier. By offering high-quality products, fair prices, and exceptional customer service, Optical Resources Group stands out from the competition.

Sincerely,

Rod Holter
