

To whom it may concern,

It is with great pride that I am writing this letter of recommendation for Claremont Foods today. Claremont Foods is a family-owned company that has been providing food manufacturing and packaging services to the natural and organic food industry since 2011.

Based in Colorado, Claremont Foods is an SQF Level 2 facility that is certified to produce gluten-free, organic, non-GMO, and kosher products. They offer a wide range of services, including assistance with product development, production, material sourcing, and product quality management.

At Claremont Foods, they strive to provide their team with competitive pay, paid time off, and health insurance. As a result, their team is highly knowledgeable and passionate about their work, offering high quality products and experiences for their clients.

In conclusion, if you're looking for a natural and organic food production partner, look no further than Claremont Foods. Their commitment to quality products and client services makes them a leader in food manufacturing industry, and I wholeheartedly recommend them.

Sincerely,

Matt Nagy
Optimization Specialist
Schooley Mitchell